reading ability and vocabulary knowledge are two of the most important components of performance in a second language especially in academic settings each depend on the other as vocabulary knowledge is the single most important factor in reading comprehension while reading is the single most important means by which intermediate and advanced learners acquire new words this symbiotic relationship is the subject of this volume the authors argue that building vocabulary through reading is a fruitful but complex activity that needs better understanding and more careful guidance this book is unique in its emphases on original research eight of the 14 chapters are empirical studies published for the first time including classroom based case studies experimental research and think aloud protocol analysis in every chapter consideration is given to the pedagogical implications and possible applications of the research findings lengthy editorial comments at the end of each chapter reinforce this practical concern provides information for learning disabled students and their families to understand the services they need identify goals and select an appropriate college to match individual needs as countries today renew their use of educational testing new concerns have arisen about how better to manage such testing china provides one example of the new emphasis on purposefully managing the policies toward educational testing in september 1984 the chinese government asked the economic development institute of the world bank to assist the officials of the ministry of education in thinking through some of the policy options for examinations and standardized testing as a result a meeting was held in april 1985 this book summarizes the descriptions of testing systems in selected oecd countries and the advice given to the government officials following the meeting the attention devoted to problems of logistics and to economies of scale are perhaps more pertinent to large heterogeneous countries such as china this book however contends that many of the principles discussed at the meeting and presented here are applicable to developing countries generally
